

COJIRA

RHINO IGUANA

Rhino iguanas live in the Caribbean and are skilled climbers.

They have strong limbs and sharp claws that help them navigate rocky areas and trees with ease. With their muscular bodies and long tails, they can effortlessly scale vertical surfaces, using their claws to grip onto crevices and ledges.

Their climbing abilities allow them to access food, find shelter, and bask in the sun from elevated perches.

